Eastern Region JROTC Championship

By Gary Anderson, DCM

The Army Marksmanship Unit's air rifle range at Fort Benning, Georgia was filled to capacity with many of the best junior shooters in the country this past week. On 15-17 February, 275 JROTC cadets representing 73 JROTC units from the Eastern part of the United States competed for honors in the Army, Marine Corps and Navy Eastern Region JROTC Air Rifle Championships.

There are now two JROTC Region Championships, the Eastern Region competition at Fort Benning and the Western Region Championships at the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs on 1-3 March. Each Region Championship actually consists of three competitions, one for Army JROTC, one for Marine Corps JROTC and one for Navy JROTC. The three competitions are fired concurrently, with each service having separate individual finals and separate awards that were presented at a joint Saturday evening awards banquet.

Each service's competition has individual, team and team alternates' matches in both sporter and precision classes. To compete in a Region Championship, JROTC unit teams and individual cadets must qualify on the basis of scores they fired in the JROTC postal matches that took place in November and December with over 6,000 participating cadets. Selections for the Region Championships are made according to the top scores in Army Brigades, Marine Corps Districts and Navy Areas.

The competitions at Fort Benning were conducted by the CMP and hosted by the U. S. Army Marksmanship Unit. On the first day, Thursday, 15 February, teams checked in, took their rifles and gear through equipment control and completed a training session on the range. An electronic target orientation was given before each training relay since nearly half of the competitors had never fired on these targets before. The large number of participants made it necessary to squad competitors in six different relays. Three full relays and an alternates' relay were completed on Friday. Two additional full relays plus separate sporter and precision class finals were fired on Saturday.

Tiffany Kineard, South Effingham HS, Guyton, Georgia, had the top overall sporter score with a 553 + 88.4 final.

Competitors could take advantage of other special opportunities as well. When competitors were not firing, most attended rifle marksmanship clinics taught by SFC Mike Moore, a Distinguished Rifleman and Distinguished International Shooter and Army International Rifle Team NCOIC. Buck Parson, a gunsmith with Pilkington Competition Equipment, Monteagle, Tennessee, was available throughout the three days to repair rifles for any competitor that needed gunsmithing services. The championship culminated with a huge Saturday evening awards banquet attended by over 450 cadets, coaches and parents. Award presenters included representatives of the Army, Marine Corps and Navy JROTC Commands and the Army Marksmanship Unit. The Army's SFC Lance Dement, triple Distinguished Shooter and winner of the 2007 President's Rifle Match at the National Matches, was one of the presenters.

With so many different competitions taking place, it is difficult to single out the most outstanding scores, however, two Navy JROTC cadets from Georgia deserve special recognition for firing the highest individual totals among all three services. 17-year-old Tiffany Kineard from South Effingham High School had the top sporter class total of 641.4 with a 553 3x20 score and 88.4 final. David Garman, a senior at Henry County High School in McDonough, fired the best precision class score of 687.2. Garman fired a 588 3x20 and a 99.2 final.

There were several close team competitions where qualifying spots for the JROTC National Championship in April were at stake. In the Marine Corps precision team event, defending National JROTC Team Champions Shelby County High School, Shelbyville, Kentucky, had the highest overall team score with a 2299 total, but they finished just 12 points ahead of the second place Marine team, East Coweta High School, Sharpsburg, Georgia, with a 2287. Henry County High School was the top Navy team with a 2293 total. This means the Shelby County team, coached by MGySgt Gerald Lyons, will have their work cut out for them at the JROTC Nationals where they will try to win their fourth national title in the five years this competition has been held.

In the Army Sporter Team event, Craigmont High School from Memphis, Tennessee, won with a 2050, but they finished just three points ahead of East Columbus High School from Lake Waccamaw, North Carolina, six points ahead of Preston High School from Kingwood, West Virginia, and seven points ahead of Ripley High School, Ripley, Tennessee. In the Navy Sporter team championship, King George High School, King George, Virginia fired the top overall sporter score with a 2125.

Complete results lists for all sporter and precision team, individual and individual alternates' events in the 2007 JROTC Eastern Region Championship are posted on the CMP website at http://clubs.odcmp.com/cgi-bin/report_matchResult.cgi?matchID=1948.

The top ten cadets in each service in sporter and precision classes received medals at the final award ceremony. Marine Corps individual winners are shown here. The first three place winners, silver medalist Kent Wilcox, Shelby County HS, KY (l.), gold medalist Logan Fox, Shelby County HS, KY (center) and bronze medalist April Dunn, East Coweta HS, GA (r.) are on the top level.

Western Region JROTC Championship

By Sommer Wood, CMP Writer/Editor

The numbers say it all for the Western Region JROTC Championship which took place 1-3 March, at the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, CO. The 344 competitors were the largest number ever to fire in a single event at the Olympic Shooting Complex, and it took five relays on a 72 firing point range held over two days to accommodate everyone.

68 JROTC unit teams from 25 different states participated in both Sporter and Precision classes in separate, but concurrent Western Region Championships for the Army, Marine Corps and Navy JROTC programs. This 3x20 three-position air rifle competition determined who would advance to the National JROTC Championship to be held at Fort Benning, Georgia on 12-14 April where they will face the winners of the Eastern Region Championship that was held on 15-17 February.

The competition began with an equipment check and a training day on 1 March. For many of the athletes this was the largest match they had ever attended and for some, the equipment check was a new experience. Once the training day was complete competitors were ready to take to the range and get the competition underway. For CMP staff the start of the competition meant that hundreds of targets were about to come their way for scoring, 2064 targets to be exact, and CMP's new Visual Imaging System called Orion was about to get it's first road test in a major shoulder-to-shoulder competition.

Operated by only three CMP Staff members, Orion produced results faster and more accurately than a team of experienced scores could have hoped for. The system, which utilizes a standard 8 ½ x11 in. scanner to score targets scanned at 300dpi, is incredibly accurate and had very few successful challenges from competitors. This was the first time coaches had the opportunity to witness the program at work first hand since it was first introduced and used to score JROTC Postal Competition targets in December 2006.

The advanced scoring system proved itself up to the challenge as several new national records emerged from the competition. An open team record thought to be untouchable nearly fell when R.L. Paschal High School Army JROTC of Fort Worth, Texas shot a 2190 in the Sporter Class. This broke the Army JROTC National 4x3x20 Team Record by 84 points and was just two points shy of the Open National Record held by the Homestead 4-H Shooting Club from Nebraska. The team was coached by Terry LeBoeuf. Scoring members were Daniel Hilario, 560, Dean Harmon, 547, Amanda Aguilera, 545 and Xentri Garza, 538. All four team members made it into the Army Sporter Final and finished first, forth, sixth and eight respectively. Hilario's individual score of 652.5 broke the Individual Army JROTC 3x20 plus final record held by Brandon Green and his 185 standing total also broke the Army JROTC standing position record. Of the four members of the record setting Paschal High team, only Harmon is a senior.

Daniel Hilario of R. L. Paschal High School fired the top individual sporter score with a 652.5 total. That score and his 185 standing result were both new Army JROTC national records.

The Army was not the only service that had records fall this weekend. Tuba City HS Marine Corps JROTC of Tuba City, Arizona shot a new Marine Corps National Sporter Team Record with a 2134, breaking the previous record held by La Cueva HS of New Mexico. Scoring members were Ashley Manygoats, 540, Lee Charles, 538, Darrell Robbins, 537 and Darrin Talawepi, 519. The team was coached by GySgt Tim Shaner. Marine Corps JROTC individual records were set by Selina Clancy of Gloucester, Massachusetts who fired a record 195 score in prone and by Darrel Robbins who tied the standing record with a 180.

Sporter class winners in the three service championships were Paschal High's Daniel Hilario, whose 652.5 score won the Army Championship, Jonathan Frye from Reed High School in Nevada, who took the Navy title with a 630.4 and Tuba City's Darrell Robbins who started the final in fourth place and finished with a 630.4 to win the Marine Corps title. Paschal High School and Tuba City High School won the Army and Marine Corps team titles with their record setting scores. Central Crossing High School, Grove City, Ohio, won the Navy team title with a 2112 total.

Precision class individual winners were Amber Criss, who represented Walla Walla, Washington High School Army JROTC and fired the overall high score with a 679.7; Austin Bonino of El Dorado High School in Albuquerque, New Mexico who fired a 678.0 to win the Marine Corps title and Helena Long from Burlington Edison High School in Burlington, Washington, who won the Navy championship.

A complete listing of results can be found on the CMP website at http://clubs.odcmp.com/cgi-bin/report_matchResult.cgi?matchID=1949. For results from the JROTC Eastern Region Championship visit the CMP website at http://clubs.odcmp.com/cgi-bin/report_matchResult.cgi?matchID=1948.

After the event concluded on the range, festivities moved to the Sheraton Hotel in Colorado Springs where the Western Region Awards Banquet was held. Participants traded shooting clothes for smart, well-tailored JROTC uniforms, and top competitors from each Service Branch were recognized in front of a crowd of over 600 people. One especially touching moment in the evening came when the Enterprise High School Army JROTC team from Enterprise, Alabama received a standing ovation as they made their way to the winner's podium to receive their Second Place Team trophy in the Army Precision Class. The team, which is coached by James Fuller, made the decision to remain in the competition after learning that their school and classmates had been devastated by a tornado on Thursday afternoon.

In all 98 awards were presented including two Junior Distinguished Badges. Also, shooters who advanced to the JROTC National Championship were recognized. Be sure to check the CMP website once competition begins on 13 April to follow real-time results from the JROTC National Championship. Congratulations to all who participated in this past weekend's event. Cadet Jim Fitz from Grove City, Ohio and Cadet Danielle McCarthy from Albuquerque, New Mexico were presented with their new Junior Distinguished Badges by Olympic silver medalist Bob Foth. Foth is the Youth Programs Manager at USA Shooting.

Special Offer for 2007 JROTC National Championship Participants for the CMP Standing Position Air Rifle Summer Camp!

The time to start preparing for next years JROTC National Championship is now and to help you get ready CMP has a special offer for all JROTC National Championship participants. We want to see you back at Fort Benning 13-15 July 2007 for the newest addition to the CMP Camp program, the Standing Position Camp. This intense three day Standing Position Camp is a must for athletes serious about making the transition to the next level. If you have goals of winning the next JROTC National Championship, winning gold at the Junior Olympics, or making a college team the standing position is the key and this camp is for you! The Standing Position Camp is taking the place of the CMP Advanced Camp, and it is open to anyone ready to take the next step in their shooting career. CMP wants to offer the camp to all JROTC National Championship participants at the reduced rate of $225 for athletes and $30 for adults. This is a residential camp provided to you at commuter camp prices. To take advantage of this great opportunity just write JROTC National Championship Participant on your registration form.

If a week long three-position camp is what you are looking for, space is still available at residential and commuter camps in Reno, NV, El Paso, TX, and Millersville, PA. Schedules and locations change every year so do not let a camp near you pass you by. This year's staff includes 2007 NCAA Champions and All-Americans, and our counselors work in small groups of four to five athletes to provide personalized instruction to meet each athletes needs. Classroom instruction is led by Camp Director Dan Durben, a 1988 Olympian, 1996-2000 National and Olympic Team Coach and 2004 Paralympic Team Coach. Dan's creative classes provide something new for even the most seasoned coach, and set a solid foundation for athletes to grow on.

Please visit the CMP Camp website for more information about all the Camps and to download registration forms, <http://www.odcmp.com/Programs/camp.htm>. For more information please contact CMP Summer Camp Assistant Director Sommer Wood at 419-341-5248 or by email at swood@odcmp.com. See you at Camp!
